"Romérica" - Scores of Roman-era coins and artifacts have been found in New England and the Ohio River Valley. They just didn't just swim across on their own. Most of these seem to date back to the 2nd century AD, potentially tying them to the Jewish Bar Kokhba uprising in Jerusalem against the Romans in 130 AD. At around the same time, the Roman Ninth Legion disappeared from history. Did the members of the Roman Ninth Legion, perhaps accompanied by survivors of the Bar Kokhba uprising journey to America in the 2nd century? If so, did they bring with them the lost Temple Treasures?

Laconia native David Brody is an 8-time Amazon bestselling fiction writer and author of 16 novels. A graduate of Tufts University and Georgetown Law School, he has served as a Director of the New England Antiquities Research Association (NEARA) and is an avid researcher in the subject of pre-Columbus exploration of America.

He has frequently appeared as a guest expert on documentaries airing on History Channel, Travel Channel, PBS and Discovery Channel. A long-time resident of Westford, MA, he currently resides in Newburyport, MA with his wife, sculptor Kimberly Scott.

Our yesterdays

Our sincere thanks to Warren D. Huse, the Laconia Historical and Museum Society, and the Laconia Daily Sun for providing a glimpse into our community's past.....

THEN . . .

Municipal parking lot, off Beacon Street, Laconia, is seen in the mid-1960s, just before the city's Urban Renewal Program got underway. Wooden storage building at left was part of the Busiel Mill complex. Esty Mill is seen between Busiel and Belknap mills, before the Busiel Mill Counting House had been razed. (Laconia Historical and Museum Society)

. . . AND NOW

Following groundbreaking in March 1971, the new Municipal Office Building (left) was nearing completion, 50 years ago this month, and opened in January 1972. At that time, the building had a flat roof, the gable roof being added in 1985-1986. The Esty Mill and the Busiel Mill's two-story Counting House had been razed in the summer of 1970 and the wooden storage building in February 1971. (Adam Drapcho/The Laconia Daily Sun)
